A&T Center To Sponsor Fund Raising Event

By Anthony Boyd

The Heritage Center, in an effort to raise funds, will hold an African Potpourri October 29 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. It will be located at the Mantleworks on South Elm Street.

Furniture, china, plants, kitchen equipment, toys, baked goods, rugs and crafts will be sold. Donations for the fund-raising events will be taken Monday through Friday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 12 p.m.

Everyone is urged to stop in and help in the transportation of goods to the Potpourri site.

The University Heritage Center, which contains 1,500 artifacts, this year received 36 new art objects. The art pieces were furnished by three foreign service offices.

The objects include a camel with three female riders, reminiscent of the fabled three wise men. A Moslem writing board, and many wooden carvings are also in the collection. A collection of African books was also donated to the center by an African student returning home.

The Center also takes trips to give lectures and exhibits. This year, the Center, using the blue and gold trailer parked in front of the building, has traveled to High Point and Appalachian State University.

The university has purchased over $11,000 worth of art pieces for the Center.

The students who began the Center in 1968 still give much support to the Heritage Center. A few of the exhibits found in the Center were done by students and faculty members. On display now are the paintings of a UNC-G professor, Mr. McMillan.

Mrs. Mattye Reed, director of the Heritage Center, stressed the fact that the Center, which has exhibits of African clothing and the slave era, is too small to accommodate the new artifacts.

Formerly the recruiting trailer, this trailer has been used to carry displays to all parts of the country. The Heritage Center, which operates the trailer, is open Monday through Friday.

Caple Heads A&T Trustees

By Margaret Brown

Dr. Lacy H. Caple, a Lexington dentist and A&T graduate, was elected chairman of A&T's board of trustees Wednesday. Other officers elected were John H. McArthur, Jr., vice chairman, and David W. Morehead, secretary.

Dr. L.C. Dowdy
Chancellor

The objectives of the meeting were to examine fiscal management, review annual reports, and discuss the well-being of the university.

Dr. L. C. Dowdy, chancellor, quashed the rumor regarding a possible A&T-UNC-G merger. "There is nothing to it," he said. "I talked with President Friday and he said to talk to the board and quell this. I talked to Mr. Johnson (William Johnson, chairman of UNC Board of Governors) and it appears to me he should know if anything were in the wind on this."

Dowdy said, "Whoever is carrying the rumor about

A&T and UNC-G should stop because there is no official knowledge of it. They would have to change the statute of the School of North Carolina System to make such a change. This is hurting our enrollment."

Dr. Glenn F. Rankin, vice chancellor for academic affairs, reported that 51 percent of the university faculty hold doctoral degrees. This was a long range project that took five years.

Dr. Jesse Marshall, vice chancellor of student affairs, said that, out of this year's graduates, they knew where 75 percent of them were. "Also with the problem of housing, we are still able to house 47 percent of our students. We are the third largest in foreign enrollment," he said.

C.C. Griffin, an alumnus and a member of the board, expressed concern about the band's uniforms. "Where is money for band uniforms taken from?" he asked.

Dr. Albert Smith, vice chancellor for development and university relations, answered that the money would come from student fees, special funds, and athletic funds.

Mrs. Miller Releases Schedule

By Bonnie B. Newman

Mrs. Eva Miller, director/curator of the H.C. Taylor Art Gallery, has released a proposed schedule for the lyceum series. The Lyceum Series, which is held annually at the Taylor Art Gallery located in the basement of Bluford Library, exhibits creative and artistic works done by Black American artists, as well as those of other ethnic groups.

Because of insufficient correspondence help, schedules for the lyceum series have been delayed; but plans concerning the series have been in the making since April of 1977.

Mrs. Miller was careful in explaining her knowledge of the public's interest in the program and also her realization that A&T does not have adequate funds to supply a full-time secretary for the program. "That is the reason that there has been so little publicity concerning the program this year," she said.

"Hopefully things will soon improve and be running more smoothly."

The Taylor Art Gallery has, over the years, exposed the student body and community to an array of talent through paintings, sculptures, weavings, and other hand-crafted displays.

Featured during October is "Profiles 2," which consists of paintings, watercolors, and drawings by Noah Jemison, Fred Moore, Jerry Pinkney, and Phil Young. In November "Children of Rhodesia and Rediscovery" will be presented in Gallery 1. Prints and drawings from the Taylor Art Gallery will be displayed in December, with "Paintings by Five Contemporary Egyptian Artists" featured January and February 1978.

During the month of March, the second part of a successful exhibit shown in 1970 will again be displayed. It is entitled "15 Afro-American Women, Part II." A different group of women will be featured from those of 1970, but Mrs. Miller feels that it will indeed be a highlight of the series. April will host paintings by football player Earnie Barnes of California and the Annual Art Department (See Exhibition, Page 2)

AFROTC Cadets Receive Academic Scholarships

Along with everything from bubble gum to land, the cost of your college education increases steadily every year. Many people in an attempt to alleviate financial pressure seek additional help much like that of the following persons.

Cadets Morgan Deane, Carrol Jones, Michael Tatum, and Barbara Thomas have each received Air Force ROTC scholarships, starting with the academic year 1977-78 until their graduation.

Air Force ROTC scholarships are available to ROTC cadets who show academic excellence and leadership quality.

Cadets Deane and Thomas will receive the four-year scholarship which includes $2,200 for tuition books, and fees and $100 every month for personal use.

Cadet Jones, an electrical engineering major, is a recipient of the three-year scholarship and Cadet Tatum, a recipient of the two year scholarship which also pays for tuition, books and fees plus $110 each month for personal expenses.

Everyone has to start from somewhere. This young man might have dreams of someday playing in the World Series. Photo by Love

"The Purchasing and Distribution system is the key to our success," said Miss Elizabeth Wilson, merchandise director of Food Town Stores, Inc. Salisbury, N.C. Her basic topic was concerned with merchandising on the local market level.

The home economics class of Mrs. Eula Vereen, assistant professor in the Home Economics Department, listened as Miss Wilson gave an indepth look into the Food Town Stores. Miss Wilson stated that, in a (See Town Page 6)

The Job.

The Coast Guard's involved in things like saving lives, fighting pollution, enforcing the law, and maintaining navigational systems. They're big jobs and they're important jobs. To the country and to the people who do them. And you could be involved in one of them after just 18 weeks in Officer Candidate School in Yorktown, Va.

As an officer in the Coast Guard you would be in a position of responsibility and leadership. It's a challenging job. One where you'll prove to yourself and others that the 4 years you spent in college were well worth it.

The Pay & Benefits.

As an Ensign in the Coast Guard, your starting salary will be over $10,000 a year. During your first 3 years, normal promotion and seniority will increase your salary by over 40%. Along with that come generous living allowances and benefits. Your medical and dental care is free. If you get married, your family also receives medical coverage. If you make the Coast Guard your career, you can apply for post-graduate training. And if you're selected, we'll pay your tuition plus keep you on full salary while you're attending school.

Our Representative will be here 10/25/77

There's also a generous retirement plan if you stay with us for at least 20 years. That's something you won't find with many private companies.

The Opportunities.

The jobs the Coast Guard does are anything but ordinary. Which means that doing those jobs will pay off in training and experience that is anything but ordinary. You'll develop skills in management and leadership that will be invaluable to you and your career. Skills you can use whether you stay in the Coast Guard or not.

And you'll be able to travel. A Coast Guard Officer doesn't stay put. Your assignment could be in any of a variety of locations around the country or overseas.

The Future.

As with any job you're interested in now, the future has got to be an important consideration. Where's the job going to lead you? In the Coast Guard your future is, to say the least, expandable. Whether you make it a career or not, the experience and skills you'll develop will be hard to match anywhere else. The most important of which will be the skill of handling yourself in a management situation. Because that's what you'll be involved in on the first day of your job as a Coast Guard Officer. And when you've got that kind of experience, you can use it anywhere.

Mann To Appear At State

By Albert Leach

Herbie Mann with the Family of Man will be appearing at North Carolina State University in the Stewart Theatre Thursday, October 27.

Herbie Mann has established himself as an outstanding flutist in jazz, but he has managed to become one of a few jazz musicians that have made it in pop attractions.

Mann has gone to Africa, South America, Europe, the Middle East, and even Japan to perform the many types of music he has featured.

Mann was born on April 16, 1930, in Brooklyn of Romanian and Russian parentage. He started playing the piano at the age of six, but three years later switched to clarinet and, within a few years, to tenor saxophone and, finally, flute.

Mann also spent four years in the Army which gave him his first insight into European music.

His first recording was with Matt Matthews, playing tenor saxophone and flute.

In 1954 he worked with Pete Rugolo's Band, and then visited Europe again in 1956, touring Scandinavia, France and Holland, working with rhythm sections. In 1960 he toured Africa on a State Department tour.

Tickets for the October 27 performance can be bought at the Stewart Theatre Box Office, located in North Carolina State University's Student Center, opposite the theatre.

Tickets will also be available at the door for both the 7 and 9:30 p.m. performances.

Attorney Morrice Speaks 'On Women In Business'

By Margaret L. Brown

Attorney Susan Patterson Morrice spoke briefly on "Women In Business" in Merrick Auditorium Wednesday afternoon.

Morrice said, "Government came to the rescue of people from working 14 hours. Yet the stereotyped attitude about women in business is still there."

The economy shows that women work because they need money, they are head of the household, and they enjoy having careers also.

Women have been discriminated against and are still being discriminated against. Since 1972, Title 7 of Civil Rights Act has helped to cut down on this discrimination. "Many companies and corporations tend to use loopholes to get out of hiring minorities and women," said Morrice.

"Many women don't expect to work all of their lives, but those who decide to have careers must keep this in mind. It's not going to be easy. They will have to work harder for expanding than

The Leach Line

By Albert J. Leach

Atlantic Records has released its album reviews for the month of October.

First, on the list is the album "Love For Sale," by the group Boney M.

Boney M not only has a rock 'n roll sound for non-disco lovers, but it has its disco version also.

The album also captures one of Creedence Clearwater Revival's tunes "Have You Ever Seen The Rain," and gives it a new freewheeling interpretation presented by Farian, and his Munich Rhythm Machine.

The Trammps have also released another album since "Disco Inferno," entitled "The Trammps III."

The Trammps' last two singles "Disco Inferno," and "Dark Side of the Moon," both dominated the R&B singles chart for most of the year.

The first single on the album is a 7-minute remembrance of last July 13th, "The Night The Lights Went Out," and another single "Love Per Hour," which invites Fred Wesley and the Horny Horns.

"Trammps III" includes disco and an 8-minute ballad for a change of pace.

Promises, Promises

Chancellor Dowdy's statement saying that there is nothing to the talk of A&T's merging with UNC-G might ease some of the freshmen's minds, but the veterans at A&T know about his long history of double talk.

Since this senior class has been here, he has made a lot of promises that improvements would be made. He promised that dormitory, cafeteria (food) and just about any other improvement you can think of would be made. To this date, that is all they have been, promises.

Granted, we understand that politicians, which Chancellor Dowdy has proven to be a good one, make promises they never intend to keep; but they should not expect us to continually believe what they say. In fact, remembering the response Chancellor Dowdy received from the student body at coronation makes it doubtful that he can find a dozen students who believe the buck of what he says.

Though the Chancellor contends A&T will not merge with UNC-G, this reporter is expecting to awaken any day now and notice the name North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University changed to UNC-G West Campus.

Sorry, Chancellor. Your past record of promises tells us this is not altogether impossible.

We Want Our Share

By Sheila Williams

After reading an editorial in the Greensboro Record about Dr. Poussaint's speech it made one wonder about the competence of the writer.

It was said that Dr. Poussaint's speech was silly and "characteristic of the all-around goofiness of the 'affirmative action' mentality that needs to be answered, and that it was "an effort to seek advantage for themselves or the objects of their pity."

No one is looking for pity or a hand-out. Poussaint was trying to say that we want "our" fair share in this country. The writer also said that "they did not want equal treatment, but better treatment."

Of course we want better treatment. We shouldn't stand around and let people have to hand things to us, like they're doing some great favor. We shouldn't have to owe anybody anything. That is why Dr. Poussaint told us to struggle. He wanted us to realize that one isn't given something for nothing.

The writer also said that, in the cranksided view of Dr. Poussaint "white Americans must be penalized because their great-grandfathers owned slaves; and the vast majority of white-Americans whose great-grandfathers were lucky enough to own a mule and six-acres of clay."

Well, what about the vast majority of Blacks who owned "nothing" and weren't even "considered" as Americans. And yet this country talked about "our 200 years of freedom". Freedom? Freedom from what?

"The Battle Of The Gym"

Editor Of The Register

On October 22, thousands of students will be pouring onto the Kent State University campus from across the country. We will be demonstrating to continue the "battle of the gym". For six months now students have fought to move the gym from the site where four students were murdered by the National Guard in 1970. Only 10 days later, 2 more students were shot down protesting the war at Jackson State, a black college. It's taken a Tent City, (See Kent, Page 5)

Kent State Students Protest

demonstrations by 1000's and 300 arrests to make a simple demand: Don't bury the truth about May 4, 1970, under concrete and steel. Don't whitewash the proud history of student resistance to the Vietnam war and the available sites so that the crime committed will not be covered up!!

After 5 months, the Trustees, Courts and government finally pulled what they thought would be their ace in the hole. They brought in the bulldozers. Already they have destroyed the spot where Jefferey Miller was shot to death. They have uprooted trees that saved the lives of students when gunshots rang out that day. They've bulldozed the area where the National Guard Company which fired the shots huddled briefly moments before the murders took place. All this, they hoped would demoralize us and make us give up in defeat.

On September 24, several thousand students from 30 campuses across the country joined the Kent students for a demonstration on the campus. In the weeks before every TV station in the country announced that the students had lost and that construction was in high gear. But on that day the student movement scored a victory. First, we renamed the four buildings after each of the slain students. Then we tore down the fence defending the site and we proceeded to bulldoze several bulldozers. But more importantly, we warned the Kent State administration and the rulers of this country that, if they try to bury the history of student protest under the gym, we will bury the gym under renewed protest.

Politically, they wanted to bury the site in order to cover over their past crimes. But it backfired, as a whole new generation of students have become even more aware of the murders in 1970 and the continued injustice today. Some people have asked why keep fighting the gym now that the hill is dug up? It comes down to this. We still have a chance to move it. The foundations haven't been laid. The dirt can be put back and the fence can be removed. Trees can be planted in honor of the four students. The hill must stand as a monument to these people and the decade they were a part of. The hill must stand as a reminder to the powers that be, that we won't sit back in the face of injustice--we won't forgive or forget Kent and Jackson State.

The demonstration on the 24th halted construction for a full week. Now, October 22, is the date of the most crucial rally the May 4th Coalition has called for in the entire six months of this struggle. A rally called before the hill can be transformed into a monument to war, murder and cover-up. On October 22 we will let the Trustees and the rulers of this country know that, if they try to bury the history of student protest under the gym, we will bury the gym under renewed protest. October 22 is a day to declare that they can't shoot down students and then spit on their graves. October 22 is a time to reaffirm that opposition to the Vietnam war was right and that youth will never again be dragged into a rich man's war. October 22 is a time for you to join the fight, to march with a thousand students against the injustices at Kent State, and the injustices all of us face time and again at the hands of our rulers.

'Most Powerful Organization On Campus'

Editor of the Register: I welcome the comments of the entire student body. Aggies from far and near congregated last week to celebrate the 1977 Homecoming festivities. Students finally were visually introduced to the "most powerful organization on campus" twice, during the Homecoming week.

Activities during the week involved the entire student body, not to mention the "dynamite" shows. "Coming Home With A Touch of Class", a theme worth remembering, lies within the hearts of many Aggies.

All of the previously mentioned was made possible by the "most powerful organization on campus". They are the ones who should receive . . . credit? Activities sponsored by the "most powerful organization on campus" have been highly criticized. Looking into the situation deeply one can see that some things are simply out of hands of the organizers. Granted, an alternative plan was at hand. But students should know in advance what is going on . . . oh, but this is too much to ask. A few intelligent minds can not "think" for an entire university, mind you.

On the other hand, the few who are willing to help are given the cold shoulder of nonacceptance. So what's the solution? First we need a formula: Student Involvement with Student Politicians yields a successful school year.

Their first album "Riding High" is also making it to the top of the R&B albums chart. It is a doubly auspicious occasion since it also marks the first release on the Ohio Players' own Atlantic distributed label, SHE (Serving Human Equality) Records.

Some of the singles from the album are "Test-This is Faze-O," "True Love," "Funky Reputation," and many more.

From Columbia, Earth, Wind & Fire begin their super '77 nation-wide tour November 2.

The tour is scheduled to start in Cincinnati, Ohio. Earth, Wind & Fire became known during their earlier albums "Last Days and Time" and "Head To The Sky," but their latest albums "Gratitude," and "Spirit," moved them to the top of the music ladder.

Earth, Wind & Fire have now released their new album on Columbia "All In All."

The single "Serpentine Fire," is heading rapidly toward the top of the charts.

Also appearing with Earth, Wind & Fire will be Deniece Williams and Pockets.

Deniece's first solo album "This Is Niecy" brought her to the attention of Stevie Wonder.

Pockets are newcomers to the music scene and will be performing from their debut album.

Earth, Wind & Fire, Pockets, and Deniece Williams are scheduled to be in the Greensboro Coliseum January 5, 1978.

Food Town Store Profits Stand At $2 Million Yearly

This program began in 1957. By 1967, profits increased to an overwhelming $5 million. This current year profits stand at $2 million achieved in the period of less than one year compared to the ten-year span from 57 to 67. The reasons for such an achievement lie within the trained buyers and their concern with the following factors: quality of merchandise, movement of merchandise, customer demands, and price.

Many items are sold at cost as a favor to the customer. In order to further work with customers in a thorough manner, Food Town Stores have organized a Customer Advisory Board consisting of 100 persons, all home economists, who survey, inquire, service and meet the demands of the shoppers.

The young, talented, determined Aggies will be faced with the mental adrenal of coming down, after a devastating, pounding victory over UMES last Saturday.

Saturday afternoon at Memorial Stadium, the Aggie gridders will hit the gridiron to battle the Howard Bison. Both Howard and A&T are coming off spectacular performances—Howard bombing Virginia St., 33-0, and A&T solidly destroying UMES, 49-0.

"Our biggest problem is keeping the players from getting the attitude that we're over the hump," said Jim McKinley. "We're expecting Howard to play their best game of the season."

Offensively, the Bison could field the strongest starting lineup in Coach Doug Porter's three-year career at Howard. Starters return at every position in an offense that averaged 21.7 points per game last season while using freshmen at quarterback, tight end, wide receiver and offensive tackle.

The offensive line is anchored by senior All-America guard Keith Napier, who can become the first player to be placed on the All-MEAC first team for four consecutive seasons. Center Dan Ambrose, also a senior, has made All-MEAC for the last three seasons.

James Breakfield, Howard's first 1,000-yard runner, will head the explosive backfield.

Defensively, Howard returns 8 of 11 returning starters with the 5-2 alignment. The heart of the Bison defense lies with the secondary. They were second in the MEAC pass defense last season, intercepting 18 passes for eight touchdowns and allowing 97.0 yards per game.

"They have more size and strength than we do," stated McKinley. "We have to compensate for this disadvantage with our speed."

Already a few eyebrows and a lot of speculations have been raised and said about the '77 Aggie basketball squad.

After one-week of practice under their belt, it appears that the guys showed up in tip-top shape. One big note of improvement is that Gene Littles, head-coach, too saw the need of a point-guard. Littles has three point-guards all capable of an outstanding, productive season.

How productive? Time can only give us the answer.

The Aggies are in quest of four victories in a row. With the experience of the Bison gridders' returning, this could denote trouble. It looks fascinating on paper, but...kicking where it counts, which is on the gridiron.

It won't be a tie this year, but a 14-point victory for the Aggies.

Check it out!

Aggies Seek Fourth Win

A&T, convincing winners in its last three games, will go after its fourth straight win Saturday when Howard invades Greensboro.

The Aggies are coming off a 49-0 triumph over Maryland-Eastern Shore while Howard claimed a 33-0 shutout over Virginia State.

Coach Doug Porter had hoped for rapid improvement in the Bison offense but hasn't found the right combination as of yet.

The Bison are talent laden with offensive linemen Keith Napier (6-3,225), a two time Mutual Black Network All-America, and Dan Ambrose (6-2,220) at center who was twice All-MEAC.

Napier should become the first player in the history of the MEAC ever to be named all conference every season of his collegiate career barring injury.

The backfield has plenty of speed in wingback Tim Wilson (6-1,175) and Howard's only 1,000 yard rusher in its history, fullback James Breakfield (6-2,215).

The quarterback chores fall on the shoulders of sophomore Brian Thomas, who understudied under former great Michael Banks.

Defensively, the Bison have been something less than spectacular despite their wealth of veterans and depth.

The front four is led by ends Paul Ball (6-3,215), Tommy Spears (6-6,265), and co-captain James Hunter (6-3,240).

The largest linebacker in the country is middle stalwart Dana Cunningham (6-6,260). He was All-MEAC a year ago and had six interceptions.

"They will run a 'wing T' offense which means there will be a lot of crossbucks, reverses, and misdirection," said A&T assistant Joe Collins.

"Howard is very large and they'll stunt almost every play defensively. They swarm over you and are intent on stopping the run. They really come after you."

Head Coach Jim McKinley hinted that his offensive strategy would probably be pass oriented this week.

"We'll throw more because they pose a different problem than our last opponents," he said.

"By Howard's using so many stunts, we'll try to hit the open spots and keep them off stride with the right call. They try to anticipate your next move."

Gametime is set for 1:30 p.m. Saturday in Memorial Stadium.

Intramural Football Goes Into Basketball

By Dennis Bryant

Now coming to the end of the football season, the Intramural Department goes into Phase II, basketball. There are two weeks left on the schedules and the favorites are picked.

In Division I and II, the favorites are The Panthers and Son of Sam, respectively. Each team will enter the tournament undefeated. In Division III, the Omegas have clinched the title.

Esprit won the powder-puff women's football championship. They retained their title for the second consecutive year. Veronica Eldridge was the women's tennis singles champion.

In the men's tennis singles finals, James White will face Darrell Todd, Monday, October 24. The Saints 101.19B are the favorites to win the volleyball championship.

Ernest Gaskins, intramural director said, "We expect a large turnout in the men's basketball participation. The roster will go out Monday, October 24. Each team is limited to ten players for the independents and 15 for the organizations."

Badminton begins October 26 in Moore Gymnasium. This will be followed by a swimming meet November 1. A wrist-wrestling tournament, sponsored by the snack bar and the Intramural Department, will be held November 9 in the snack bar of the Student Union.

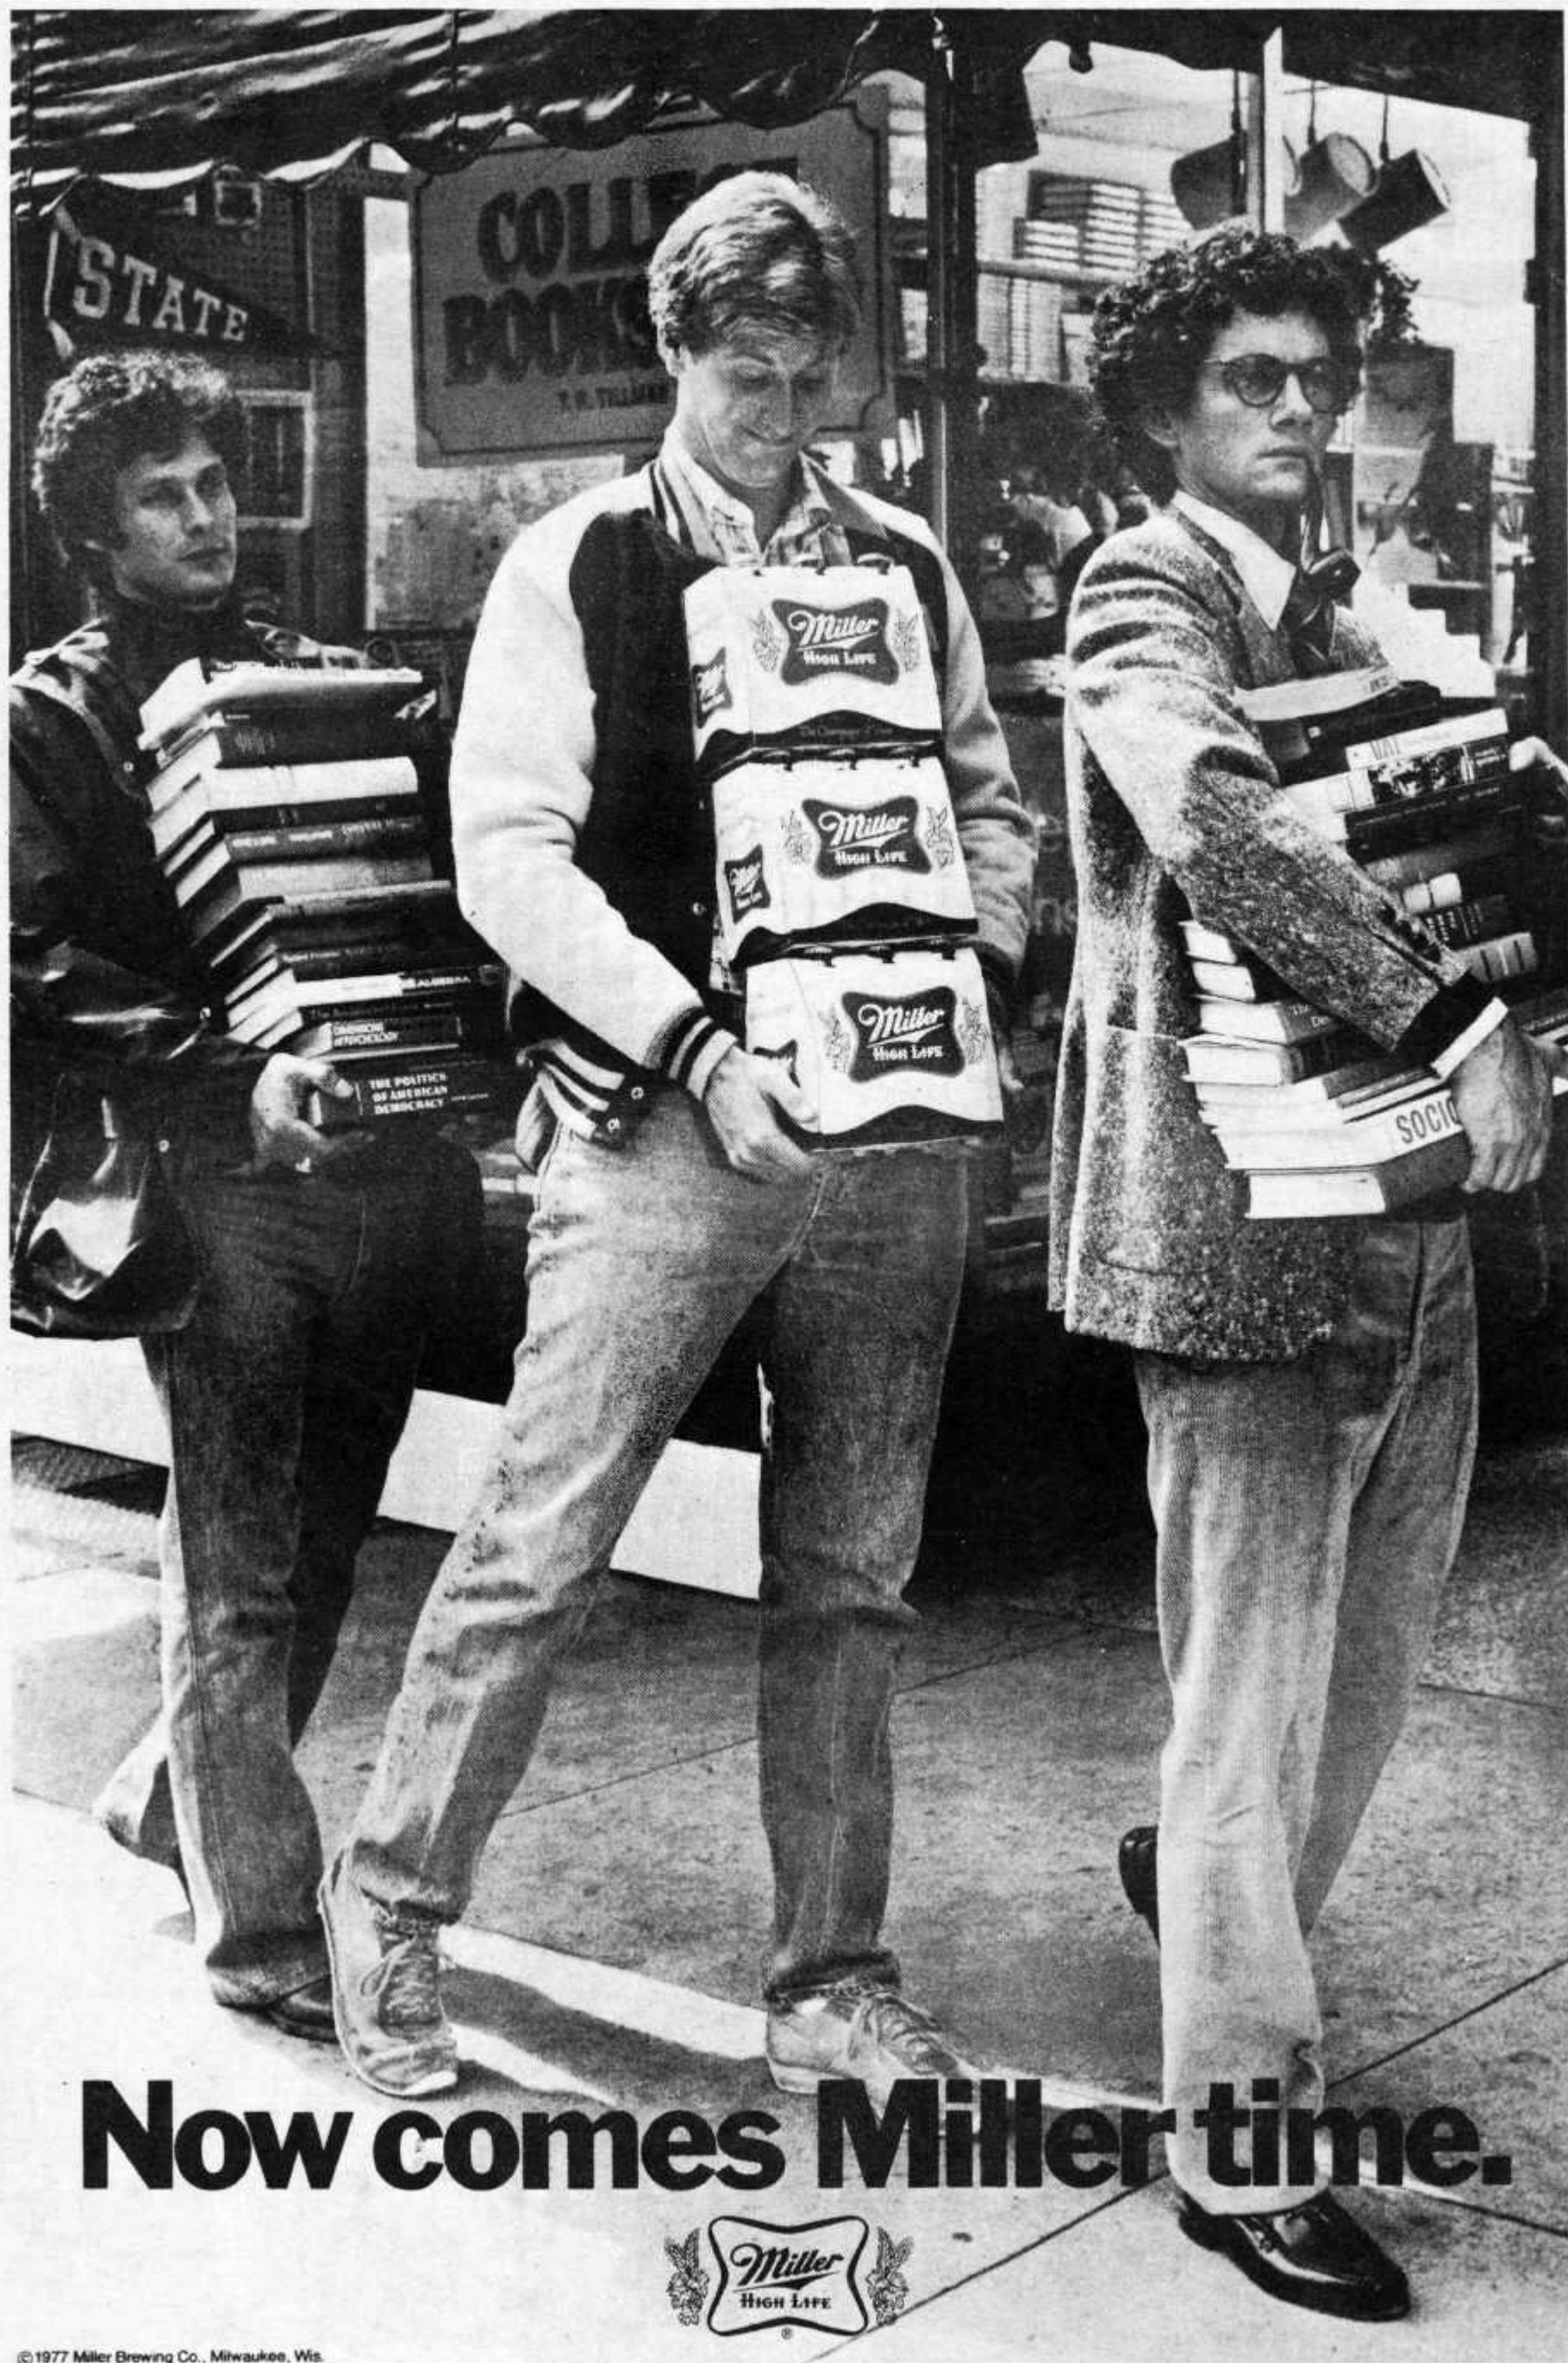

People can also sign up for membership to the Century Club. Gaskins said, "The Century Club is for people who want to jog, run, and cycle on their own. They can come by the office to see Kevin Willis or me for more information."

This Saturday the Bison of Howard University will invade Aggie territory. Here members of the Aggie football team practice up on some dummies. Kickoff for the Howard-A&T battle is 1:30.
